

Cookie Policy

Version 03, 26 February 2024

www.e-comprocessing.com

This document contains our Cookie Policy for E-Comprocessing's official website, accessible at www.e-comprocessing.com ('our website').

This document describes what information is gathered via cookies, how we use it and why we sometimes need to store these cookies. This document also explains how you can prevent these cookies from being stored, however, this may downgrade or impact certain elements of our website's functionality.

What is a cookie?

Cookies are small pieces of information, normally consisting of just letters and numbers, which are downloaded to your device (typically a computer or mobile device, but also other equipment such as wearable technology or a smart TV) when you visit www.e-comprocessing.com.

Software on your device (for example a web browser) can store cookies and send them back to our website next time you visit.

What are cookies used for?

Cookies are used in numerous ways, such as helping you log in to our website, analysing traffic to our website or tracking your browsing behaviour. A description of the purpose for which a particular cookie is used is provided in the tables below.

What types of cookies do we use?

The cookies used or that will be used from time to time on our website have been categorised based on the categories found in Guidance on the use of cookies and similar technologies, issued by the UK Information Commissioner's Office.

Necessary cookies – visitor preferences

We use necessary cookies to make our website work smoothly. Necessary cookies support the core functionalities of our website, such as its accessibility.

Within this category, we use the following cookies:

Cookie	Name	Type	Purpose	Duration
General purpose identifier	PHPSESSID	Session, first-party	Used to maintain user session variables.	End of the browser session
Cookie consent	Cookie Control	Persistent, first-party	Used to store the data about the user's cookie preferences for the current website.	90 days

'Session cookies' are cookies that expire at the end of a browser session (normally when a user exits their browser). Session cookies allow the website to recognise and link your actions during a browsing session. Because session cookies are temporary, they do not accumulate information about your identity or from your device.

'Persistent cookies' are cookies that are stored on your device in-between sessions. They remember your preferences and choices when using our website, such as language preferences. These cookies are temporary and set to expire at a certain point in the future, as per their duration period.

Analytics cookies

The analytics cookies assess your interaction with our website as an anonymous user. They collect information in a way that does not directly identify anyone. The analytics cookies are persistent cookies.

We intend to set Google Analytics cookies to help us improve our website by collecting and reporting information on how you use it. The browsing experience of our website visitors is NOT tracked by Google Analytics by default.

You may, though, choose to consent to sharing your browsing experience on our website for us to produce anonymised statistics. This can be done by accepting the analytics cookies or you can reject this – either through selecting your preference on our website or the site's cookie banner when you first visit it.

You can always decide to withdraw your consent or consent again at any time.

You will be able to access our website, whether analytics cookies are accepted or not.

If you intend to accept the analytics cookies' performance on your web browser, please read the Google Ads related information under the “Targeting and advertising cookies” section of this policy.

We intend to use the analytics cookies described below. However, we will not set analytics cookies, unless you explicitly accept them.

Cookie	Name	Type	Purpose	Duration
Google Analytics 4	_ga_19P17MQBPL	Persistent, third-party	Used for throttling analytics requests to limit requests being sent from your browser to Google services.	One minute
	_gid	Persistent, third-party	Used to store your unique Client ID to Google Analytics.	24 hours
	_ga	Persistent, third-party	Used to uniquely identify users. Each action that the user makes on the website is called a Hit and sends data along with your unique Client ID to Google Analytics.	Two years

Google Analytics 4 is a third-party service included on our website that sets cookies. Below you can find detailed information about this service:

Targeting and advertising cookies

The targeting and advertising cookies gather information from you on your device to display advertisements to you based on relevant topics that interest you. The targeting and advertising cookies are persistent cookies.

We intend to set targeting and advertising cookies from Facebook.

You may accept or refuse such cookies to be used – either through selecting your preference on our website or the site's cookie banner when you first visit it.

You can always decide to withdraw your consent or give your consent again at any time.

You will be able to access our website, whether targeting and advertising cookies are accepted or not.

We intend to use the targeting and advertising cookies described below. However, we will not set such cookies unless you explicitly accept them.

How to control cookies?

To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set, please visit www.aboutcookies.org or www.allaboutcookies.org.

Disabling cookies

Most browsers have settings that allow you to prevent any cookies being placed on your device. There may be instances where you may then have to manually adjust some preferences when you visit a website.

You may disable Necessary cookies by changing your browser settings, but this may affect how the website functions.

You may withdraw your consent for Analytics cookies and Targeting and advertising cookies at any time on our website.

Furthermore, to opt out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites, please visit <http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.

You can customise the targeting of ads to align with your preferences, whether it's related to your activity on or off Facebook. To learn more, please visit <https://www.facebook.com/help/568137493302217>.

Removing cookies

You may delete previously set cookies manually or configure the browser settings to delete cookies at a set interval.

You can delete all cookies that are already on your device by clearing the browsing history of your browser. Please, see your browser 'Help' for more information on how to do this. This will remove all cookies from all websites you have visited.

More information

We are committed to respecting your privacy.

We do not collect any other information about you as a visitor to our website, except what is gathered by the cookies listed above. These cookies are not used for any purpose other than what is described in this policy.

Hopefully, this policy provides you with clear information about the type of cookies we use and what they do. However, if you are still looking for more information, then you can contact us at dpo@e-comprocessing.com.
